Measles Rarely Spread by Indirect Contact, as Exposure Harms Virus

By DR. MORRIS FISHBIEIN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Measles is spread mostly through direct contact of persons who have not had the disease with those who have it. The substance that carries the infection apparently is present in the secretion of the nose and of the throat.

We do not happen to know definitely the cause of measles. We do know, however, that it is infectious. This can be shown in various ways. For example, injection of the blood of a measles victim into the blood of one who does not have the disease will cause the second person to contract the disease. Moreover, nose and mouth secretions of those who have the disease may be used to produce the disease in others.

Man apparently is the only animal who ordinarily has measles, but experimental measles can be produced in monkeys. The cause of the disease probably is some substance or organism so small that it cannot be seen even the highest powered microscope.

We know from studies made by investigators that the virus which carries measles is injured by exposure of air and sunlight. For this reason, measles seldom is carried from a sick person to another by a third person or an animal. In other words, should a visitor get some of the virus on his hands or his clothing, the virus may die during the time spent in going from one person to another. For this reason, doctors and nurses who care for measles victims may visit other patients without danger of transmitting the disease, provided reasonable precautions are taken.

Thus, it is wise to wash the hands thoroughly after visiting a patient. People who enter the sick room should put on a clean gown before entering the room and remove the gown after leaving. Dishes, bedding, and other materials used in caring for a child sick with measles should be boiled before they are again used.

There are some strange things about measles that make it different from diphtheria or scarlet fever. Few adults are likely to catch these last-named diseases, yet an adult may catch measles from a child if he has not already had the disease.

Measles is particularly virulent when it is introduced into a population in which there has been no measles for a long time. For example, one of the worst measles epidemics on record occurred in the Faroe Islands in 1846. Of the 7800 islanders, 6000 had the disease in six months.

In 1775, measles broke out on the Sandwich Islands. There were 150,000 people, and 40,000 of them died in four months. Severity of this epidemic was due partly to the intensity with which measles attacked a population in which there is no immunity.

It has been suggested, however, that many of the deaths were due to the fact that so many people were sick at the same time that there were not enough well people to care for them. Indeed, it is said that some died of starvation and many others from lack of any kind of care.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Modern Life Tends to Create Gulf Between Parents and Child

Writers on the home and the child are, to a certain extent, regular Grammy Tippy Toes. I myself am old-fashioned and like to think of Papa coming home to his clapping house at six o'clock, a bunch of youngsters on the porch yelling, "Here he comes," and a bag of jelly beans being sifted out of his pocket.

But most of all, I picture Mama, neat as wax, as the books admonish her, smiling in the hall, while from the kitchen waft nose-tickling aromas of just-the-right things to eat.

All writers take a standard for their theses, and the above is the one I like. It is a working basis, so to say, for suggesting the do's and don't's of behavior.

Yet, every sane soul today knows that such homes are only a fraction of all homes.

Pleasure-Seeking Disrupts Family

Blow a whistle, and like the Arctic lemmings, out from nowhere pour the children. They come from crowded alleys, from severe and stately apartments; from city canyons and country lanes.

Some have two parents, some have one, and some have several. Many have none.

No, all children are not sanding their roots in a pleasant suburb or village with dad and mother, Brud and Sis, and the dog. I wish they were. Or out on the farm where Brud could help with the horses and Sis with the chickens and eggs. Or in a clean city with wide streets and some grass, where the sun could tan them in season.

However, the most confirmed dreamers among us who harp on the child-dren day after day, are not so dead to reality that we blink the trend of the times or the pull of the world. Not for children, this time, with their rushings and returnings, using home only for a filling and service station. The pleasure-mad mother and father who separate themselves daily and nightly from the children and live in a realm composed of cocktail jackets and bridge scores, of dinner dancing and the engrossing affairs of their crowd.

Separation Bad for Children

I do not mean to sound like John Knox. I hate finger wagging and beard stroking. And strongly advise the stick-at-home parents to get out and try the merry life. It will do them good. I myself like nothing better than to lay out the silver slippers and get going.

But I could wish that the too-worldly woman, and her husband who does his selling at parties, would get a perspective on this constant separation from Brud and Sis and the baby, and note how this "world-apart" wraps them in cellophane that permits of no real warmth in family ties. Even though the youngsters are well-cared for in a physical sense, there is something spiritually essential about parents at home a good percentage of the time.

That parent who coolly desires it thus and has no faith in the necessity of affectionate contact, has a right to choose. But many do not think about it at all. So it would be an excellent plan to put the whole situation under a glass and look it over carefully. Perhaps a certain feeling of restless unhappiness and an engulfing fog of loneliness will find an answer.

is talking about. "Here's to Crime" is principally a survey of the racket situation in the United States as of today. Mr. Cooper sizes up all sorts of illegal enterprises, and shows the grasping hand of the underworld reaching up into realms where most of us have little idea that it ever appears.

And he makes, over and over, the excellent point that rackets do not exist without political corruption. The hostess racket, the taxidance racket, the slot machine racket, the gambling racket, the thousand-and-one other rackets—none of these, he remarks, ever gets a foothold unless someone in the police department, the mayor's office, or the district attorney's sanctum

Furthermore, he cites chapter and verse to show that he knows what he

Ellen McAdoo to Obtain a Divorce

Quits Rafael de Onate, Filipino-Born Actor She Married in 1934

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—(AP)—Ellen McAdoo de Onate was at the home of her father, United States Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, over the weekend after suddenly filing suit for divorce from the film actor she married in 1934. They separated Thursday. The divorce complaint charged non-support and asked custody of their son, Richard, 1½ years old.

"I cannot understand it," said Rafael de Onate, known to the screen as Ralph Novarro. He married the granddaughter of the late President Wilson when he was 38 and she 19.

But Mrs. de Onate explained: "Things simply came to the point where my son and I were not getting proper financial support and I thought it best to take this way out of the situation. I hold no ill feeling against Rafael, in fact I wish him the best of luck."

The Riverside county clerk in 1934 refused to issue de Onate a marriage license unless he could furnish proof he was not a Filipino. He admitted he was born in Manila and was arranging to obtain proof his parents were Spanish-Basque when parental objection to the wedding was withdrawn.

"Thimble Size" Future Library
 NORMAN, Okla.—(AP)—You may be able to store a 100,000-volume library in a small cabinet one of these days. J. J. Hill, assistant librarian at the University of Oklahoma, says this can be brought about by micro-photography.

Books would still be printed, for a picture of each page would be taken. The developed and printed film would be projected on a small screen.

"Facsimiles of some of the greatest manuscripts ever written, costing thousands of dollars a copy now, could be made for three or four cents a foot," Hill explains.

He says about 1,000 pages could be photographed on a film bound into the size of an ordinary spool.

"Why I Choose CAMELS"

THE CHAMPION GIRL bronco-buster and rodeo star, Rose Davis, says: "The Camels I smoke with my meals and after are most enjoyable."

"MARK ME DOWN as a man who appreciates how mild and tasty Camels are," says all-events bowling champion, Johnny Murphy.

N'TL OUTBOARD MOTOR-BOAT CHAMPION, Fred Jacoby, Jr. "My condition is important! That's why Camel is my cigarette," says Fred.

"CAMELS help keep me pepped up," TWA hostess, Betty Steffen, says. "I see many famous people. And most of them smoke Camels."

JIMMIE FOXX slugging first baseman of the Boston Red Sox says:

"I STICK by Camels and Camels stick by me. Camels set me right. I smoke Camels for their refreshing 'lift,' and for the aid they give my digestion. Camels help me feel my food agrees with me."

At mealtimes Camels are an aid to digestion—speeding up the flow of digestive fluids—increasing alkalinity—bringing a sense of well-being. Steady smokers prefer Camels. They are so mild!

CHIEF ENGINEER George J. Buckingham stows up with Camels before clearing port. He says: "It's a strain keeping machinery under control. Camels help ease the tension."

 AMSTERDAM, Mo.—(AP)—Ice-covered walks and fields hold no terror for Charles Clark, one of the old settlers here. "Uncle Charley," as he is ing, into which have been driven a few roofing nails and fastened to his shoes with straps across the toes, save him from many a fall.

Speaking for myself and 16,000 other Buick work men—we're mighty glad to be back on the job! It's been tough to stand by, knowing how eager thousands of people were to get one of these great cars. And it's a grand feeling now to see the wheels turning and the line rolling, and to watch those big, handsome babies pouring out regular as clockwork! There's power in them, and style, and comfort—and when you see them made, like I do, you know they're packed with good, honest workmanship as well as top-notch engineering. We're proud of those Buicks, and the way you've taken to them, and we're going to get yours to you as quick as we can.

"It's Buick again!"

"I'M A SECRETARY," says Joselyn Libby, "and I often eat in a hurry. When I enjoy Camels with my food I feel on top of the world."

"I WANT A CIGARETTE that doesn't jangle my nerves," says master welder Dan Rafferty. "And Camels don't. Camels are mild!"

GOING DOWN the compression locks, Sidney S. Wetzel, tunnel engineer says: "My work involves danger. But Camels don't frazzle my nerves."

Blond Discord for Rubinoff

Unperturbed by defense charges that she was married 12 years ago in Roanoke, Va., Peggy Garcia readily posed for this picture at trial of her $500,000 damage suit against Violinist Dave Rubinoff in a New York court. She said her only marriage occurred when Rubinoff jilted her after a persistent courtship. Born Pauline Taylor, she adopted the name Garcia from a cigar band.

Women Join in Fight on Syphilis

More Prevalent Than Measles, Twice as Much as Tuberculosis

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A nationwide syphilis education program has been announced by the General Federation of Women's Clubs through its Department of Public Welfare, Mrs. Clarence Fraim of Wilmington, Delaware, chairman. This project is being promoted under the direction of Mrs. Carl W. Illig, Jr., of Massachusetts, chairman of the Division of Public Health.

Dr. Thomas Parran, Jr., Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, who recently addressed the Board of Directors of the General Federation at its annual mid-winter Board meeting, has said, "Our children will hold us criminally careless and incompetent if, with the means at hand, we fail to end this scourge (syphilis) within our generation."

The General Federation has decided that participation in the conquest of this disease is the next objective in its Health Conservation program. Active co-operation is asked from every club and every member because syphilis is a destroyer of mankind in the prime of life; because it can be passed on by a syphilitic mother to her unborn child; because the disease is very frequently spread innocently from one marital partner to another; and because the practical scientific weapons are at hand to attack and conquer this plague.

According to medical authorities it is well known that syphilis is a contagious disease, caused by an organism known as the spirochete, which may attack and destroy any organ or tissue in the body. One adult in ten is infected by syphilis at some time during his or her lifetime. Unless it is treated, it is permanently disabling and frequently fatal. Dr. Parran states that there is reason to believe that if all conditions due to syphilis were reported as such, it would be found the leading cause of death in the United States. In 1934 automobile accidents resulted in 107,000 cases of permanent disability, yet in that same year syphilis attacked and disabled more than half a million persons. There is more of it than measles, twice as much as tuberculosis, and a hundred times as much as infantile paralysis. These are the facts reported by the Public Health Service.

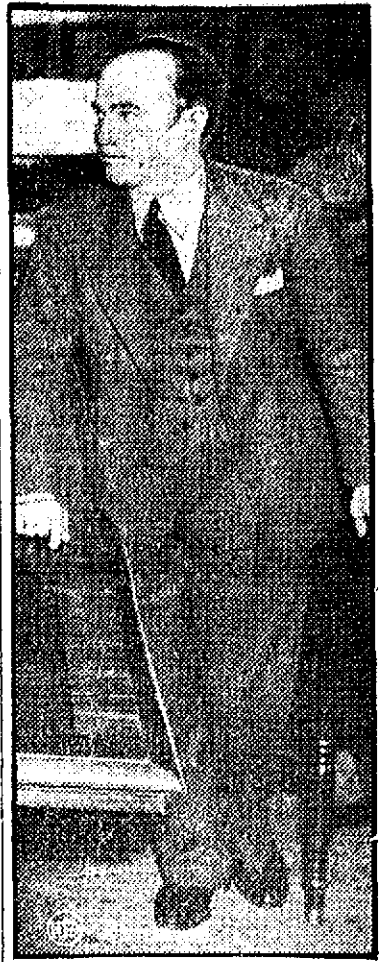

Women all over the United States should be informed of these conditions, and for this reason the General Federation is beginning its syphilis education program. Mrs. Illig has outlined the program that is being launched. The duty of every club woman in this fight is to inform herself about syphilis and other venereal diseases, including the nature, mode of spread, prevalence, measures of diagnosis, treatment, and prevention. Material along these lines is available in every community health department. The second duty of the club woman is to inform her family and friends, and through organized effort to promote general education on this subject; and as a third point of attack, the club woman should insist upon health examinations which include blood tests for syphilis as an indispensable part of all prenatal examinations.

Rubinoff Smile Fades at Trial

The "beautiful smile" which Peggy Garcia, 23, found attractive in Violinist Dave Rubinoff was not much in evidence when this photo of Rubinoff was made during the New York hearing of the $500,000 damage suit filed against him by Miss Garcia. She claimed he "jilted" her after promising marriage.

Britisher Thinks All Rulers Since Queen Anne Were Illegal

By THOMAS HAMILTON
Associated Press Correspondent
OXFORD, England. — (AP) — Should former Prince Ruprecht of Bavaria become king of England, the only reward Peter Geach plans to ask is "the right to lead a quiet academic life."

Geach leads a band of 50 students at Oxford college who declare that all Britain's monarchs since Queen Anne have held the throne illegally.

Ruprecht, present head of the House of Stuart which was displaced by the House of Hanover more than 200 years ago, was declared "legitimate heir to the throne of Britain" in a proclamation read by Geach recently on the anniversary of Stuart Charles I's execution.

Although Geach exposed himself to trial for high treason, his action was received calmly and without retaliation from British officials.

No sudden burst of enthusiasm has come in response to his appeal, which brought the claims of the House of Stuart to attention for the first time since the rebellion of 1745 when "Bonnie Prince Charlie" nearly won back the throne.

And Geach, who wore his scholar's

50 Report for Grid Practice at U. of A.

Prospects Bright for Winning Football Team Next Season

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—Material that promises to make the Arkansas Razorbacks football champions of the Southwest Conference for the second successive season, answered the call for spring football practice here Monday afternoon.

About 50 men were taken in charge by Coach Fred Thompson, Mike Creighton, coach and manager of the professional Chicago Cardinals, Choice Rucker, 1935 captain of the Razorbacks and Jim Lee Howell, star of the 1935 team. The candidates will practice for several weeks.

Although basketball season will not end until the games with Texas Christian March 5-6, Coach Thompson and his assistants later will have Jack Robinson and Jimmie Benton, co-captains of the 1935 squad, back with their famous pitching and catching act. They also will have Dwight Sloan of Van Buren and Ray Hamilton of Sheridan, both great players. Savoy Seamster, a guard and placement kicker of the 1935 squad, who was out because of an injury last year, will be available.

Regulars and letter men from the 1936 squad include: Ralph Rawlings, quarterback; Marion Fletcher, fullback; Lloyd Montgomery, halfback; Lloyd Woodell, center; John Donaldson, center; Lundy Corbett, tackle; Ed Lalman, tackle; George Gilmore, guard; B. A. Owen, guard and placement kicker; Nathan Gordon, end; Ed Gordon, halfback; Leo Price, halfback; Neil Martin, halfback; Bob Stout, tackle; Art Withers and Dick Tipton, ends.

With a promising group of sophomores and several junior college transfers, the coaching staff has good material with which to work, and when the basketball season is over spring practice will settle down in earnest.

Sutherland May Resign at Pitt

Football Coach Wants Showdown With College Officials

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—"Gloomy Jock," the big silent Scot who has led Pitt's Panthers to the football heights, is at odds with the athletic powers at Pitt. And the campus heard Monday in gossip—"Jock Sutherland might resign"—"He won't quit, he can't."

But Dr. John Bain Sutherland, it was generally agreed, wants a "showdown" with Don Harrison, athletic director, on differences which have been rankling since the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day.

Just what the differences are nobody seemed able to say definitely. But among the students and the followers of Pitt, there was much discussion of reports that Sutherland wanted to lend football players money to attend a dance after they trounced the University of Washington and that Harrison didn't agree.

Harrison said: "There's nothing to discuss. If Jock thinks a showdown is necessary, he's perfectly free to have one."

The taciturn Scot was "somewhere in Ohio" and no comment was forthcoming beyond his statement to a Cleveland sports writer that: "We can't go like this."

Sutherland's success with the Panthers has been great—his teams have never lost two consecutive games and since 1924, a Sutherland-coached eleven hasn't lost more than two games in any season.

The Sportsman

By LARRY BAUER

Pioneers in the American Southwest found a bird they called "fool quail" because it was so confident it could almost be caught by hand.

This grotesque and clownish fellow is the Mearns quail. Perhaps the queer plumage of the cock had something to do with earning its common name. Anyway, the appellation now seems a misnomer for the bird is as wary as the Bobwhite.

The Mearns quail is reported by wildlife authorities to be growing scarce over its former range, and it is listed among fauna that would be assured preservation by establishment of the proposed Big Bend national park in Texas.

This bird should not be confused with the Texas Bobwhite, sometimes called "Mexican quail," which has

A Rabbit with a Lion's Heart

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(NEA)—Jack Coullidge, star right halfback of Michigan State, says that an attack of infantile paralysis led him into football.

Jack was stricken when less than a year old, with one leg most seriously affected. Physicians recommended all sorts of outdoor exercises and athletics. As the boy grew older his parents insisted on his participation in every form of sports.

Coullidge still shows signs of the paralysis attack, however. One leg is shorter than the other. He wears a 7½ shoe on one foot and an 8½ on the other. Because of the difference in his legs he runs with a peculiar gait which has led his teammates to call him "Rabbit."

Truly, a Rabbit with a lion's heart.

been introduced for restocking in mid-western and eastern states. The latter is smaller and lighter in color than the eastern Bobwhite.

Some interesting notes about the quail are contained in a recent Bureau of Biological Survey report devoted to results of a study of wild turkeys on the Ozark range. The old ridge-runner appears full of tricks for the bureau says:

"Relative sizes of the turkey egg and the quail's mouth have caused much conjecture about this predator's method of carrying an egg away from the nest. Late one afternoon, an

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Investigating the murder of BOLITHO BLANE, British innkeeper, CARLTON ROCKS, yachtsman, DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING, runs into a maze of conflicting circumstances. As the investigation nears an end, and possible motives are checked for each suspect on the yacht, LADY WELTER, the BISHOP OF BUDE, INOSUKE HAYASHI, and REGINALD JONES, LYNN still appear to offer strong motives for the crime. Only NICHOLAS STODART, Blane's secretary, appears conclusively ruled out.

Then Lady Welter's maid appears, testifies, and corroborates previous testimony which tends to account for Lady Welter's insanity. Previously, Rocksavage, Mrs. Jocelyn and COUNT PONORDEN had offered rather conclusive proof of their innocence.

Next, FERRIS ROCKS, who is called for re-examination and under pressure of the minutes that she spent almost an hour with Jockey in her cabin, which time would cover the period of the crime. This tends to clear Jocelyn of the murder. Thus only NICHOLAS STODART, Blane's secretary, appears conclusively ruled out.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXIV

AFTER my third examination of Miss Ferri Rocksavage it occurred to me that the letter Hayashi alleged he had been writing might have been posted and would then still be in the postbag as in the course of routine, I had given instructions on the morning of the 8th that no letters were to be sent ashore. This turned out to be the case, and I had the letter translated by the yacht's second cook, who is a Japanese. He attests that the original could not have been written in less than eight minutes, leaving Hayashi only 12 minutes to change. His story, therefore, appears to be true.

The lounge steward, Cane, confirms the fact that the supply of ship's notepaper in the writing room ran out early in the afternoon, before Hayashi came on board, and that he could not refill the racks until the chief steward, who had the keys of the store room, got back from his trip ashore.

He further states that Hayashi handed him the letter for posting on arriving in the lounge at 8.15. It is obvious, therefore, that Hayashi could not have procured the paper earlier or written the letter at any other time than that appearing in his statement.

The cabin steward, Ringbottom, also confirms that Hayashi was still unchanged when he brought him the supply of ship's notepaper at 7.55.

Attested translation herewith.
S. Y. GOLDEN GULL,
At sea, 9-1-37.

My dear Keshima,
As you know, instructions were given by Shikoku to do the business either with Mr. Rocksavage or with Mr. Blane. Shikoku refused to offer you anything. Therefore any compensation you may receive will have to come out of my own money. It depends on the fee which will be paid to me by Mr. Blane or Mr. Rocksavage.

I understand that Rocksavage will agree to a loan of ten million dollars, and I may expect one million dollars for my share. I told them that this was the lowest you would accept.

My expenses have been considerable, and I am therefore suggesting that we divide this amount between us, and on that understanding I am proceeding with the matter.

Yours,
(Signed) INOSUKE HAYASHI.

Detective Officer, Florida Police.

DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAME'S SHORTHAND NOTES OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S THIRD EXAMINATION OF THE BISHOP OF BUDE.

K. Come in, Bishop. Have you thought of anything since this morning which might show us how you were occupying yourself between 7.05 and 8 on the night of Blane's death?

B. No. I wish I could, but I can't think of anything.

K. What time did Blane come to your cabin?

B. Yes, Blane. It's no good denying it. I've got the goods on you. Just a little thing that happened to be in your wastepaper basket. See, it's a book match with "Adlon-Claridge" on it, the New York hotel from which Blane wrote you a few days back. Nobody except Blane could have left it where we found it, and it proves that, after he came on board, he went along to see you in your cabin. Now, what have you got to say?

B. I want Officer—I—I—

K. I will offer the truth. What time did Blane come along to you?

B. Oh dear, oh dear. This is terrible. Quite terrible.

K. What time did he come I say?

B. Only a few minutes after the ship sailed. I hadn't been in my cabin more than three minutes when he came in.

K. How long did he stay?

B. Only two minutes. No more, I assure you.

K. Why did he come?

B. Just to ask if I had got his letter.

K. What did he say?

B. Only—only—after asking if I'd got his letter, that it would

Giants Go Through Batting Practice

Celebrate Washington's Birthday by Driving Long Flies

HAVANA, (AP)—The New York Giants' heavy artillerymen celebrated Washington's birthday Monday by aiming a barrage of long flies at Tropical stadium's right field fence—398 feet away from home plate.

None of the heavy hitters was able to drive the ball over but nearly all of them had an alibi. The most popular was the one treating with the intricacies of meteorology—heavy air, humidity and other dreg matters.

Nevertheless the National League champions looked better than they have at any time since they started training last Friday. Coach Frank (Fanchio) Snyder again was in charge of the practice in the absence of Manager Bill Terry, who is expected Tuesday. Snyder switched batting practice from meetings to afternoons and that will be routine unless changed by Terry.

Grandstand managers liked especially the work of young William Yarewicz, up from Greenwood in the Cotton States League, who was on the mound for a half-hour during the batting practice. He had plenty of stuff on the ball and showed fine control despite the fact he was just breezing.

Chick Hafey Will Attempt Comeback

Cincinnati Outfielder, III Two Years, Will Report at Tampa

By the Associated Press

Chick Hafey seems determined to regain a berth with the Cincinnati Reds. He's listed among those expected to report at Tampa.

Chick feels fit again, whether he will be able to step back after an absence of almost two years is something else. He is not too old to have some baseball left in his system—he's just 34. There are many big timers at that age or older.

Hafey's biggest handicap is that long absence. Few ballplayers can stay away more than a year and then come back in the form he was in.

Early in 1935 Chick was stricken with flu. It left him a chronic sinus ailment. He went on the voluntarily retired list.

He Feels Helpful

Last spring when Hafey appeared cured the Reds placed him on the roster. They thought that when warm weather rolled around the big fellow would put in an appearance. But he never did.

His correspondence with Cincinnati this winter indicated Chick feels he can be of real help. He is hardly one to go to the trouble of training unless he feels reasonably sure there is some chance of recapturing some of the form that enabled him to lead National League batters in 1931 while still with St. Louis.

Has A Few Enemies

In his first batting practice was a terrific right-handed batter. Few ever hit a ball harder. His big league average was .320. He was a dependable fielder and boasted one of the finest throwing arms.

Chick is picking no soft spot for his comeback. The Reds' outfield may not be the best in the league, but there are several promising youngsters coming up to vie with veterans.

Only right field seems definitely filled—with Fred Goodman. Kiki Cuyler likely will hold down center field as long as his legs hold up.

The real battle is going to be for left field. For that berth, Chick will have to beat out: Babe Herman, the one and only; Phil Weintraub, former Giant who hit .371 with Rochester last year; Joe Dwyer, Nashville, who hit .65 doubles and batted .383, and Jack Rothrock, who is up for another fling in the big show.

After a successful '36 in the big show, Chick is outside of these gentlemen the left-field spot is open and waiting for Chick.

Grid Games Produce Net Profit $245,972

By NEA Service

BERKELEY, Calif.—It's not the woman who pays and pays. It's the football fan.

Football at the University of California during the 1936 season showed a net profit of $245,972, according to the semi-annual report of the Associated Students.

The total receipts, after guarantees had been paid to visiting teams, were $312,795.10. "Direct" expenses, whatever they are, totalled $58,083.24 and ticket printing and distribution costs were $8,739.60.

Get This Straight

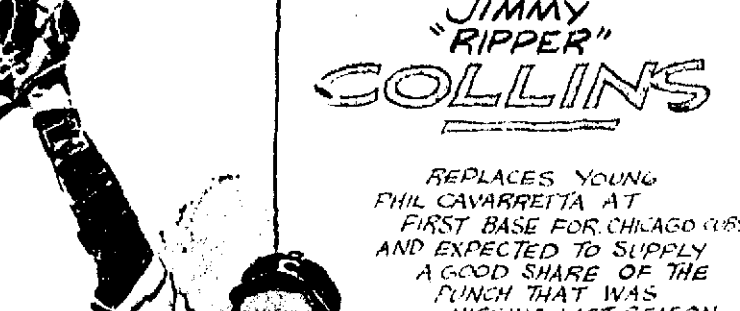

COLLEGE STATION, Texas.—(AP)—"Hub" McQuillan, Texas Aggie cage mentor, is nimble-witted—but sometimes his thinking processes jump far ahead of his speech.

Complimented by a fan during a recent scrimmage on the condition of the Aggie cage, Hub remarked: "Yes, and it will look even better when we give it another point of coat."

Later McQuillan was teaching his boys an intricate new play, stopping them with a shout when anything went wrong. After one pause for correction he instructed: "And now remember, boys, yell when I quit."

Since static sparks can ignite dust, static electricity is a possible cause of many explosions.

Widener Sale Spurs Hosses

HALFA, Fla.—(NEA)—Racing followers are asking if Joseph E. Widener's aides muffed another horse as the result of Sceneshifter's showing at Hialeah Park in the Bahamas Handicap. The three-year-old ran third ahead of such as Log, Golden F., and Advocate. Should Sceneshifter continue to display this form he will represent the third mistake in two years to be chadder up against the judgment of the great turfman's staff.

A steppelasher of indifferent reputation, Azucar was passed along to Fred M. Alger, Jr., two years ago. Alger transformed Azucar into a flat racer which a few months later won the first $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

Rushaway campaigned with indifference success until peddled to A. G. Tarns. Rushaway won the Louisiana, Illinois, and Latonia Derbies, the latter two on successive days, earning $32,000.

When sold as lacking in ability to Maxwell Howard this winter for $7,000, Sceneshifter had yet to win. After a short time under Trainer Earl Sande, Sceneshifter won a maiden race by 12 lengths in 1:11. He then showed in the Bahamas Handicap.

Holdout Sets New Low, Asks for Only $2.50

SAN FRANCISCO.—(AP)—Somewhat overshadowed by the holdouts of such stars as Lou Gehrig and Joe DiMaggio was the one staged by Captain-Shortstop Hal Rhyne of the San Francisco Seals. It seems that last season club bookkeeping, as between monthly and daily pay, cost Rhyne $2.50. He got the matter adjusted to his satisfaction before signing this year.

Change Location of Amateur Night

Will Be Held at 7:30 Friday in High School, Not City Hall

Amateur Night, sponsored by the library club of Hope High School, will be held at 7:30 p. m. Friday in the auditorium of the high school instead of the Hope city hall as previously announced.

Contestants are asked to register with Jimmy Jones or Miss Mina Mae Milburn at the high school by noon Wednesday. The amateur show is open to any person in the county.

Proceeds will go to the library fund. Awards of $10.35 and $3 will be given to the winners.

Dizzy Says He Won't Play Ball This Season

DALLAS, Texas.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, ace pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, expressed a hitherto unpublished mood Monday as he boarded a train for his Bradenton, Fla., home.

"You can just say I'm laying out of baseball this year," he said, "and that's definite and final. I've made up my mind. I'm not asking the Cardinals for $50,000 or any other salary this year and I won't play ball for anybody regardless of salary."

"I'm tired of all the publicity that has gone out about my baseball status and I'm going home and take life easy the rest of the year."

Dispute Over Officials Halts Scheduled Cage Contest

CONWAY, Ark.—(AP)—Hendrix College's basketball team withdrew from the Arkansas State Teachers College gymnasium Monday night in a disagreement over the number of officials for their schedule contest.

Coach Ivan H. Grove of Hendrix and Warren Wooson of the Teachers were unable to agree on whether there would be one official or two.

Grove wanted both Alvin Bell and Leroy Scott to officiate. Wooson said his athletic committee felt only the hiring of Bell was justified from a financial viewpoint.

It was finally agreed both would work but Scott balked and declined to officiate. He said he was informed an objection was raised to him because Elbert Wilkes, Hendrix star forward, was a member of his Little Rock team four seasons ago. He said he was unable to referee in the face of this report.

After he declined to work, the Hendrix players boarded a bus and returned to their home campus.

More than 1000 fans were on hand to see the teams clash in the third game of their series which may determine the state intercollegiate championship. They split two games in January.

Magnolia Cagers Drop Close Game

Beaten by Jonesboro in Exciting Game Monday Night, 29-27

JONESBORO, Ark.—(AP)—Arkansas State's Indians scored an exciting 29-27 basketball triumph over Magnolia A. and M. Monday night.

The two teams played neck and neck throughout the entire tussle. They were deadlocked at the half, 11-11. Magnolia spurred to a 22-18 lead but was held to five more points while a desperate Indian rally pushed Arkansas State's count to 29. Magnolia players missed chances to win the game by failing to make three free throws in the final minutes.

Archie Morris, Indian forward, and "Dubb" Baldwin, guard, scored seven points each for State. B. A. Allen, forward, paced Magnolia with eight.

Henderson Will Play Jonesboro Saturday

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—The Henderson State College basketball team, now making a great record after a slow start at the beginning of the season, has two more games booked before the annual state tournament. There will be another game with the Kruger team of Hot Springs and next Saturday night match with Arkansas State College of Jonesboro here on the local court.

Henderson has played 11 games, winning eight and losing three. Henderson later defeated decisively two of the teams that won from them early in the season, and last Friday night, surprised all by their victory over State Teachers at Conway. The showing of the Reddies places them in the favored section of the state tournament entries along with Bradley Lumber Company Independents, State Teachers, Hendrix and the Ouachita team.

PUGLINESS PRESERVED

EARLY in the 18th century, King Augustus II of Saxony planned a new and expensive palace in Dresden, but he got no further than the "Zwinger" or fore-court — an example of the ugly, cumbersome rococo style of architecture which has led art lovers to be grateful that no more of the palace had been built.

Today, the Zwinger is preserved as a museum containing what is considered the greatest collection of ancient armor in the world. Here is the metal dress of some of the boldest leaders in history, and alongside are collections of old drinking vessels, of all sorts of weapons, and even a wide variety of old dog collars.

Alongside this museum is the Museum of Natural History, built on one wing of the Zwinger, which had been burned down during the street revolt of May, 1849. Here are German minerals and a zoological collection brought from all parts of the world.

The Zwinger appears on one of the series of German semi-postal stamps issued in 1931.

Learn Music by Writing Melody

Girls Are Best at It, According to Oakland School Director

By SAM JACKSON
AP Feature Service Writer
OAKLAND, Calif.—Oakland school children are learning music by composing it.

Started last October, juvenile song-writing is swinging into mass production, financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, and directed by Arthur S. Garbett, who is stone deaf.

Xylophones have replaced the old-fashioned school books. On them the young tune-smiths hammer out their own musical versions of "Rolling Skating," "Riding in a Squeaky Bus," and "Our New Bay Bridge."

Kitchen Symphony
A 6-year-old girl, for instance, sings: "Why should I go to bed? I am not a sleepy-head. Hottest day I've ever seen. May I stay up, please Nurse Jean? When the idea spread to a Japanese class in San Francisco, where there were no xylophones for "tone bells," as the teachers call them, the pupils devised a "kitchen symphony." This consisted of glasses filled with water to varying depths, which give the required musical notes when struck. Among the results was this song by a girl of 11:

I'd like to be a candle.
Shedding cherry rays.
Brightening every corner.
Lighting gloomy ways.
But it shines no brighter
Than a sunny smile.
So I'll wear one always.
I'm a candle child.

Close-to-home subjects are part of Garbett's system. His idea originated, in fact, when he heard a class of American school children singing "Bluebells of Scotland."

Use 3-Note Scale
His pupils use the pentatonic or five-note scale, which eliminates the troublesome Fa and Ti.

"Natural musicians—the Celts, the Negroes, the Chinese—use this scale and it has given us some of the loveliest and most spontaneous folk-tunes that we have," he explains. "It is the same series of tones we get by playing the black keys of the piano and anybody can make tunes with it."

Instead of getting dry instruction about clef-signs, notes, rests and so forth, the pupil learns about them when he meets them in his own developing composition.

Experience shows that both naturally talented children and those less gifted get great pleasure out of their studies.

Girls Are Best
Editor, critic, and author of the "Victor Book of the Opera," Garbett lost his hearing through illness about 12 years ago. Learning that with an electric earphone he could hear radio music, he went into broadcasting continuity work. In addition to his school work he is now western educational director of the National Broadcasting company.

His pupils are taught to compose in their mind, then to write their melodies on the blackboard, and play them. When they think they have a "hit," they transcribe it to a ruled notebook. Some compose in the sheer realm of melody. Others have something to say and write their lyrics first.

Girls have proven to be much more apt in composition than boys.

Dr. High Really Is F. D.'s Close Ally

Despite Presidential Buff, High Continues Liberal Drive

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Those who think President Roosevelt's attitude of Dr. Stanley High for saying startling things in "The Saturday Evening Post" will knock this spokesman of the "advance" movement into a cocked hat may be wise to wait and see.

No doubt it took much of the curl out of Dr. High's crest to have Mr. Roosevelt say so positively that some who write as "authoritative" spokesmen for the President are really not so very authoritative.

But Dr. High is a very bright young man indeed and even long before Mr. Roosevelt had established himself in the White House, Dr. High had established himself as the hero of aggressive church and civic groups. So staunch are many of Dr. High's following that it is doubtful if even the President's chiding words will disturb them greatly.

During Young Man
Dr. High, who organized the "good neighbor" league for the Democratic party during the campaign, said in his article that many old line Democrats, especially prevalent in the south, must be shaken out of the party while the New Deal-minded younger followers take over under the Roosevelt banner.

Naturally Mr. Roosevelt could scarcely allow that to go unchallenged as something he had told Dr. High over a friendly cup of coffee.

Yet it is easy to imagine many of Dr. High's earnest followers suspecting the President was forced by these very same old-time Democrats to sort of repudiate Dr. High for the sake of peace, regardless of how near the truth he may have been.

Sunday School Hero
Dr. High has plotted himself into the most advanced of the advance youth movements as a sort of scout on the lookout for better ways. It sometimes he sees wolves ahead that the rank and file do not see, perhaps he can be excused if on occasion he shouts "wolf" when really there is no wolf.

Dr. High likely will go right on advance scouting as he has since very early after the war. He is well liked and highly admired among the secular groups who read him most, and more than one Sunday school teacher has told his charges that unless they stop taking those late Saturday night jorjor rides up the river they won't grow up to be like Stanley High.

Wait on Senate
WASHINGTON — (AP) — House Democratic leaders said Tuesday they would await senate developments before starting consideration of President Roosevelt's court reorganization program.

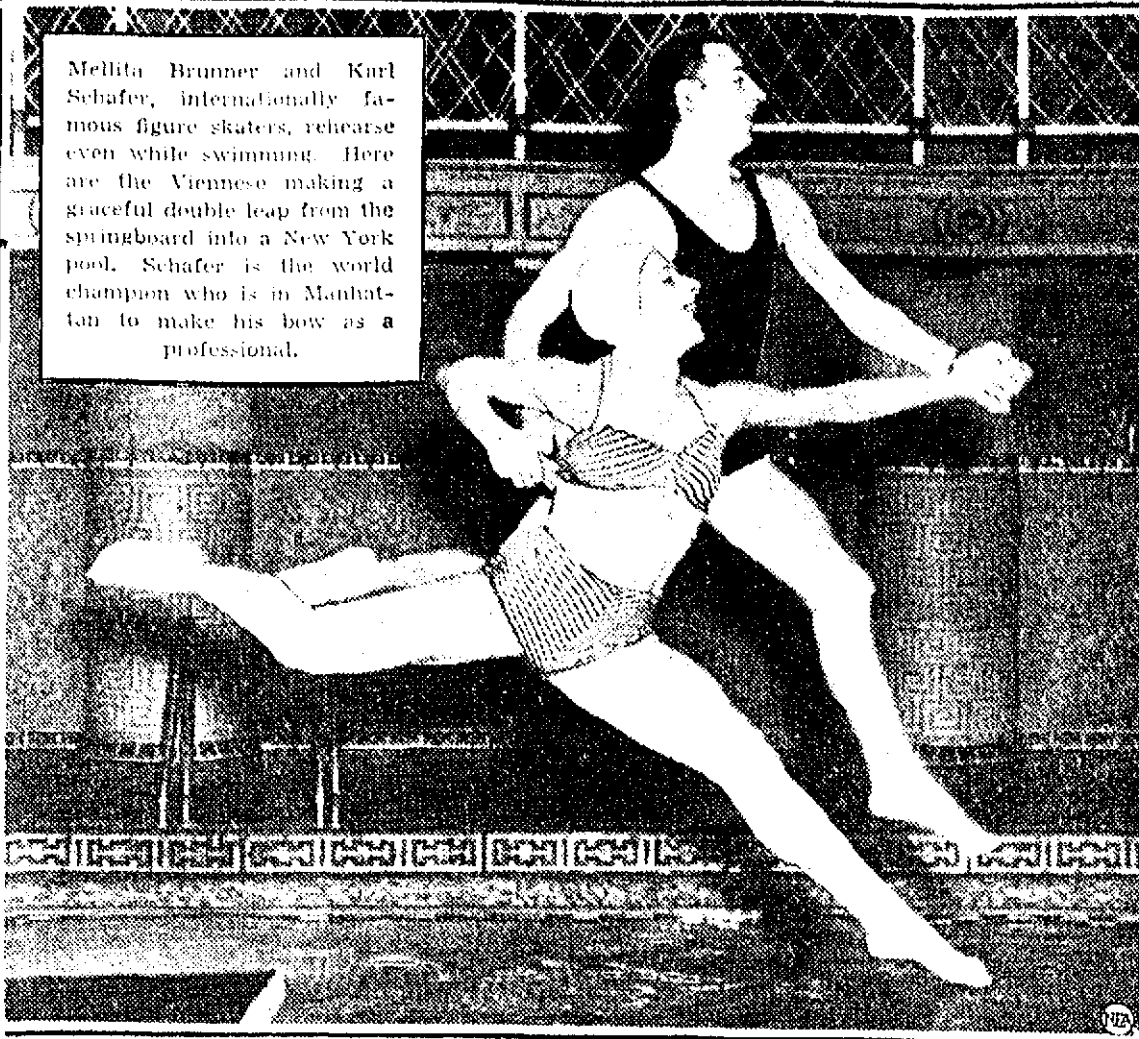

ten, 67; Justice Goddard, 59; Justice Lawrence, 56; Justice Atkinson, 62; Justice Singleton, 51; Justice Porter, 55; Justice Lord, 58; Justice Hilbery, 63; and Justice Poyer-Lewis, 55.

The Probate, Divorce and Admiralty division is presided over by Justice Merriman, 55. The other justices are Langton, who is 56 and Bucknall, who is 57.

Appeals to Law Lords
The Court of Appeal is composed of the Lord High Chancellor, the Lord Chief Justice, the Master of the Rolls and the President of the Probate, Divorce and Admiralty divisions, all acting ex officio.

Master of the Rolls is Baron Wright.

Moths Are Killed by Electric Traps

Moths Develop Immunity to Poison Spray, Now Are Electrocutured

By PAUL D. SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Farm Editor

GRLEANS, Ind.—Electrocution may solve the growing problem of controlling codling moths, no longer checked by sprays. The moths are the cause of most wormy apples.

Some experts believe the moth which lays the egg which hatches the worm which bores into the apple has developed an immunity to a large number of sprays.

Another contends it has become smart and "learned to spit out the first bite of apple skin, then eat its way merrily into the apple."

Agricultural engineers think light traps with which they have been experimenting on farms near here may be the answer.

The traps resemble Japanese lanterns. Each contains an electric lamp bulb and vertical wires three-eighths of an inch apart, charged with sufficient current to electrocute a moth. They are hung in the tops of trees, singly and in clusters from the rim of a wagon wheel. The wheel revolves slowly, driven by an electric motor.

It costs only a few cents to operate, the trap during the evening hours when the moths are active.

Thousands of electrocuted moths have been found under a trap after a few hours' operation, says Truman E. Heintzen, associate professor of agricultural engineering at Purdue.

Gary Cooper says: "It's plain common sense for me to prefer this light smoke"

"A little over a year ago I changed to Luckies because I enjoy the flavor of their tobacco. Ever since, my throat has been in fine shape. As my voice and throat mean so much to me in my business, it's plain common sense for me to prefer this light smoke. So I'm strong for Luckies!"

Gary Cooper

IN PARAMOUNT'S "THE PLAINSMAN"
DIRECTED BY CECIL B. DE MILLE

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Cooper verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.
